Senate OKs $1.5 Billion Building Program; Includes 110,000 Family Housing Units

The Senate has approved a $1.5 billion program to build 110,000 new housing units for military families.

Authority for the construction is contained in the new Housing Act of 1955, which the Senate passed by a vote of 60-25.

Senator John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), who shepherded the measure through the hearings and final Senate acceptance, said the "much-needed" plan will give military families "an opportunity to live comfortable and normal lives, in so far as military duty permits, on a reasonable parity in terms of housing with the average American citizen."

Houses constructed under the plan would be in addition to the 17,000-unit, $255 million program provided in the Military Public Works bill now being prepared for final action in both the Senate and House. (See Story on Next Page.)

As approved by the Senate, Title IV of the new Housing Act establishes "Armed Services Housing Mortgage Insurance," which authorizes the Defense Secretary to contract with private builders for the construction of military family quarters on or near Service installations.

Contracts would be awarded to builders who submit the lowest acceptable bids on the basis of FHA-approved plans and specifications. Construction would be financed by the builder through mortgage borrowings insured by the FHA.

After the houses are completed within a prescribed three-year period, the Defense Secretary assumes responsibility for the obligation of the mortgage and for management and operation of the housing.

Military personnel and their dependents would be assigned to the housing in the same manner as they are assigned to other public quarters, surrendering their quarters allowance as rental.

A provision in the Armed Forces title states that rentals shall not exceed an average of $90 per month per unit during any year.

The 110,000 housing units to be constructed under the program would cost an average of $13,500 per unit, or a total of $1,485,000,000.

House Group Would Raise Govt. And Job Restriction For Military PD-Retired

A House Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee is recommending legislation to open up opportunities for higher-paying Government jobs to thousands of military personnel retired for physical disability.

The group has asked that the present $3,000 limitation on dual compensation be boosted to $10,000 for many of those on the disability retirement rolls.

Some officers retired for disability reasons currently may draw both their retired pay and an unrestricted salary from a civilian Government job. This group, however, includes only a few categories of officers; i.e., those retired for disability resulting from combat, an instrumentality of war, or other limited hazards.

Those retired for other disability reasons may, under current law, accept both their retired pay and a Government salary only if the combined amount is $3,000 or less. As a result, officers in this category cannot accept Government jobs paying more than $3,000 unless they waive their retired pay.

The new proposal would permit any officer retired for physical disability, who is now bound by the dual compensation restriction, to accept a combined salary up to $10,000.

For example, an officer with a disability retirement who now receives $5,000 retired pay could earn an additional $5,000 from a civilian Government job. If his retired pay is $2,500, he could accept as much as $7,500 from the Government. For any Government position paying more than $10,000, he would have to temporarily waive his retired pay, the same as he now does.

The proposal is contained in HR 5893, sponsored by Representative Olin Teague (D-Tex.). Mr. Teague, Chairman of the Committee, is expected to call the measure up for a vote at the next full Committee meeting.

Maj. Gens. Schilt, Noble Named For Three Stars

President Eisenhower has nominated Maj. Gen. Christian F. Schilt, USMC, Commanding General, Aircraft, FMF, Pacific, to serve in three-star rank as Director of Aviation and Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps for Air. He will assume his new duties 1 Aug.

As reported in THE JOURNAL of 30 April, General Schilt will succeed Lt. Gen. William O. Brice, USMC, who becomes Commanding General, FMF, Pacific, on 1 Sept.

Maj. Gen. Alfred H. Noble, USMC, Commanding General, MCB, Camp Lejeune, N. C., was named to fill the three-star billet now occupied by General Schilt. (Please turn to Page 1264)

Special Weapons Post Goes to RAdm. O'Beirne

RAdm. Frank O'Beirne, USN, will succeed Maj. Gen. Leland S. Stranathan, USAF, as Commander, Field Command, Armed Forces Special Weapons Project, with headquarters at Sandia Base, Albuquerque, N. M., on 20 June.

RAdm. O'Beirne

Admiral O'Beirne, a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, Class of 1926, was designated a Naval aviator in 1929 and nominated for Flag rank in 1953.

Admiral O'Beirne's previous tour of duty was in the Pentagon as Deputy Chief, Armed Forces Special Weapons Project, Washington, D. C. General Stranathan entered the Air Corps as a Flying Cadet in 1927 and received his regular commission as a Second Lieutenant of the Air Corps in 1929. He was appointed to Brigadier General, USAF, in 1949 and to Major General in June 1953, while serving as Commanding General, Field Command, Armed Forces Special Weapons Project.

General Stranathan will be assigned to Headquarters, United States Air Force, Washington, D. C., as Assistant for Development Planning, Office of Deputy Chief of Staff, Development, USAF.

Gen. Johnson Reports On Huge Command

Current action on Capitol Hill has spotlighted interest in the Nation's Reserve Forces.

THE JOURNAL publishes on page 1247 a special report by Lt. Gen. Leon W. Johnson, USAF, Continental Air Command chief, in which he describes how his command is responsible for more than 330,000 officers and airmen.

Works Bill OKs New Messes At 30 AFB's; Provides 17,000 Family Housing Units

A $2.3 billion military construction program, including more than $250 million for family housing and $1.5 million for new Air Force mess halls, has been approved for the coming fiscal year by the House Armed Services Committee.

The Committee gave the green light to a program which contains $14.6 million more than the Pentagon originally requested.

Housing authorization contained in the bill provides for the construction of approximately 6,000 new family units for the Army, 3,000 for the Navy and Marine Corps and 8,000 for the Air Force, as well as the rehabilitation of about 3,000 Army units. A complete breakdown of the housing projects was reported in THE JOURNAL, 23 April.

Only one item for family housing (Camp Pendleton, Calif.) was eliminated from the measure. Several other family housing items, all in the Navy, were added.

The Committee reduced a request of $6 million for the Marine Corps Base at Camp Pendleton, Calif. (including family housing) to a little more than $600 thousand. The action was taken because of a long-pending controversy over water rights in the Pendleton area. Until the dispute is settled, the Committee does not favor new construction in the area. The 10 per cent retained in the bill for Camp Pendleton is to provide utilities and waterfront facilities.

Family housing added to the bill includes $131,700 for the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Fallon, Nev.; $74,000 for the NAAS, Mayport, Fla.; $3,700,800 for the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.; $162,100 for the Naval Hospital, Corpus Christi, Tex., and $385,000 for the NAAS, Whiting Field, Fla.

The Navy received an additional $11,285,000 for midshipmen housing at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, and to fill in the Dewey and Santee Basins there to provide more land area.

Air Force messing facilities at numerous bases accounted for a large share of the AF increase. More than 30 Air Force bases were authorized amounts ranging from $44,000 to $181,000 each to build new messes. Bases which received the increases are:

Buckingham Weapons Ctr, Fla.	James Connally AFB, Tex.
Greater Milwaukee Area, Wisc.	Luke AFB, Ariz.
Presque Isle AFB, Maine	Mather AFB, Calif.
Selfridge AFB, Mich.	Moody AFB, Ga.
Sioux City, Muni Apt, Iowa	Nellis AFB, Nev.

Lowry AFB, Colo.	George AFB, Calif.
	Myrtle Beach Muni Apt, S. C.
	Sewart AFB, Tenn.
	Shaw AFB, S. C.
	Elmendorf AFB, Alaska.

Oxnard AFB, Calif., was granted an additional $2 million for facilities including troop housing.

Authorization also was deleted for construction work at the Navy's Petroleum Reserve #1, Elk Hills, Calif., and the Navy Radio Station, Squantum, Mass. Reductions were made in items requested for the Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., the Naval Powder Factory, Indian Head, Md., the Naval Torpedo Station, Report, Wash., and the Naval Magazine, Port Chicago, Calif.

Construction authorized in the continental U. S. totals approximately $709 million for the Air Force, $332 million for the Navy and Marine Corps, and $239 million for the Army. The Air Force is authorized approximately $451 million for construction outside the continental United States, the Navy-Marine Corps, $107 million, and the Army, $78 million.

In addition, the Army is authorized about $224 million and the Navy-Marine Corps, $107 million for construction of classified projects.

The measure also contains authorization for the expenditure of $21 million to rehabilitate present buildings and facilities ($10 million for the Army, $6 million for the Navy-Marine Corps and $5 million for the Air Force).

Plan To Standardize Jet And Turbo-Prop Engines Awaits Sec. Wilson's Signature

The long-awaited directive for the standardization of jet engines is reported to be on Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's desk for final signature.

The special six-man committee, under the chairmanship of Frank D. Newbury, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Applications Engineering, who were instructed to draw up such a directive, have unanimously approved and signed the document.

This special group, in addition to its chairman, is composed of Asst. Sec'y Roger Lewis (Material) of the Air Force, Asst. Sec'y James H. Smith (Air) of the Navy, Mr. Floyd Hague, Director of Aircraft and Marine Craft in Newbury's office, Brig. Gen. Marvin C. Demler, USAF, and Capt. A. L. Baird, of BuAer.

The new directive has been considerably modified since the first draft last fall.

Some Pentagon officials have described the present method of procuring aviation turbine engines as "the shotgun approach."

The new rules are long-range and limit the types and sizes of both turbojet and turbo-prop engines.

They are designed to establish and maintain an integrated long-term turbine engine development to meet predicted weapons systems requirements.

A standard system of spacing engine thrust ratings is established, with each rating to be 50% larger than the next smaller rating. However, the new directive does not specify the exact ratings as did the first draft. An industry spokesman said this was done to establish classes of ratings to fit the three new super-jet engines, the General Electric J-79, the Curtiss-Wright J-75, and the Pratt Whitney J-57, which are soon to be produced.

The original draft indicated the next higher rating would be in the 22,500 lb. thrust class. It is speculated that the new rules will require future engine projects to be in the 24,000 lb. thrust rating.

The new directive eliminates the section on "Preferred Diameters," which was in the earlier draft.

The directive, in order to implement the new rules, designates the Joint Coordinating Committee on Piloted Aircraft, a group composed of officials from the applications engineering and the research and development offices. This committee will have supervision over all research, development, procurement, and financing of future engine projects.

In order that less attractive projects may be "weeded out," the directive urges more frequent evaluations of development projects and curtailment to insure that effort is concentrated on the most promising projects.

Considerable attention is given to the financing of engine projects in an effort to solve some of the problems now confronting the fiscal officers of the Services. Research funds are to be used on all projects up to the point of "feasibility for future production." After it is determined the engine could be a practical one for production then production funds can be used.

The Aircraft Industries Association was given a copy of the new directive. At a meeting on 6 June, the five engine company representatives decided, it is understood, to take no action concerning the establishment of the new policy.

DONALDSON'S TOPS

Donaldson Air Force Base, S. C., commanded by Col. Wade Hampton, USAF, has been awarded the Air Force Flying Safety Award for the period July through 31 Dec. 1954. Colonel Hampton is commander of the 63d Troop Carrier Wing.

In a letter announcing the award, General O. P. Weyland, USAF, Tactical Air Commander, said the Wing's C-124 Globemasters and other aircraft flew 21,300 hours during this period without a single accident, "an outstanding record."

Double Trans-Pacific Airlift Set For July

The biggest troop unit airlift in military history will be carried out by the 18th Air Force next month when Army airborne regimental combat teams in Japan and this country are exchanged.

The airlift will be supervised by Col. Wade Hampton, commander of the 63d Troop Carrier Wing at Donaldson AFB, S. C., in Douglas C-124 Globemasters from the 62d Troop Carrier Wing at Larson AFB, Wash., augmented by the aircraft of the 63d Wing.

The 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team will be flown from Ft. Campbell, Ky., to Ashiya Air Base in southern Japan to replace the 187th Regimental Combat Team which will be returned to Ft. Campbell. Although complete regimental combat teams have been airlifted before, none has been flown so far.

Survivor Benefits Bill Goes To House Next Week; No Changes Anticipated

The House of Representatives will be asked next week to vote on new survivor benefits legislation for the Armed Services.

Chairman Porter Hardy, jr. (D-Va) of the House Select Committee on Survivor Benefits will introduce the measure on or before 24 June and urge its enactment.

The new plan is expected to contain substantially the same provisions reported in detail in THE JOURNAL last week.

Recommended in the Committee print are provisions to bring all Service personnel under contributory Social Security, abolish free life insurance, set a minimum and maximum on the six months' death gratuity, increase VA compensation for widows, children and dependent parents, and eliminate FECA benefits for Reservists called to active duty after passage of the bill.

The date on which the benefits bill will be called up for debate on the floor depends on how rapidly the Rules Committee acts.

Before completing hearings on the measure, the Hardy Committee heard further testimony from the Retired Officers Association, Reserve Officers Association, Naval Reserve Association, Disabled Officers Association, Jewish War Veterans, AmVets, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, as well as the National Association of Life Underwriters, and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

In general, the measure was favored by all organizations although some, notably the VFW, American Legion and AmVets expressed concern about certain provisions and asked that the bill be modified.

The AmVets objected to the rank-related compensation for widows and suggested that a flat rate be established for all survivors. The VFW also objected to this feature of the bill and to the provision eliminating free life insurance. The American Legion expressed similar views about the plan to drop the insurance program.

The Reserve Officers Association asked that a provision be written into the bill to provide protection for Reservists en route to or returning from training.

The Hardy Committee completed open and executive hearings on the measure on 14 June and final mark-up of the bill was in process as THE JOURNAL went to press.

Committee Urges Legislation To Protect GIs From "Fly-By-Night" Insurance Sales

The House Armed Services Subcommittee for Special Investigations is drafting legislation to curtail the use of military allotments to pay commercial life insurance premiums.

Representative F. Edward Hébert (D-La), the Subcommittee Chairman, said the proposal is designed to protect Servicemen from "fly-by-night salesmen."

The Subcommittee recently completed an extensive inquiry into the sale of commercial life insurance to military personnel in Europe and in several of the States.

The members found in Europe that many Servicemen were paying for commercial life insurance for only 3-5 months and then dropping the policies either because they felt "they should not have bought it in the first place, or didn't understand what they had bought."

The only beneficiaries, the Subcommittee said, "were the agent and the company." GIs who dropped the policy premium payments before the third year's premiums had been said received no "extended insurance" protection, no cash surrender value and no cash loan value.

Acting on the recommendation of General Anthony C. McAuliffe, USA, Commander-in-Chief, U.S. Army, Europe, the Subcommittee will recommend that Servicemen not be permitted to make military allotments to pay for commercial life insurance which has been in effect for less than one year.

The group also will ask that:

- No agent be permitted to sell inurance to Servicemen unless he has passed a qualification test of at least one year in one of the 48 States.

- No company be permitted to sell insurance on a military reservation located within the Continental U.S. or the Territories unless both company and agent are licensed by the insurance department of that State or Territory, regardless of whether or not the military reservation is under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

- As a minimum, any company permitted to sell insurance upon a military reservation or to use the allotment system for the payment of premiums must contract with the GI policyholder that the terms of the contract will be interpreted according to the laws of the state of residence of the GI policyholder.

Chairman Hébert said the proposal "is a minimum which the Congress owes to the GI to protect him and to protect the legitimate companies in the business of selling commercial life insurance against the recklessness and carelessness of fly-by-night agents and careless companies."

I Corps Chief of Staff

Brig. Gen. Christian H. Clarke, jr., USA, recently Executive Officer of the National War College, is Chief of Staff of I Corps (Group), in Korea, commanded by Lt. Gen. J. H. Collier, USA.

Senate Committee Boosts Funds Bill

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted this week to provide $31,836,521,336 to operate the Defense Department during the new fiscal year beginning 1 July.

Included in the total is an added $356 million for Air Force plane procurement. The amount is over and above funds previously approved by the House.

New totals for each of the Services, in round numbers, are: Army, $7.3 billion, an increase of $235,000 over the House bill; Navy-Marine Corps, $9 billion, a decrease of $48,800 from House recommendation; Air Force, $14.7 billion, an overall increase of $337.8 million above House figures.

The Committee restored $270,000, including $20,000 for public information activities, to the office of the Secretary of Defense for an overall total of $12,670,000, including $420,000 for public information. The group recommended that the title of OPI be changed to Office of Public Affairs.

Also added to the measure was a provision which permits the Defense Secretary to transfer up to $200 million from other funds into the interservice emergency fund. Senator Dennis Chavez (D-NM), Chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Armed Services, said the Committee wants the Defense Secretary to have "wide discretion" to provide the U. S. with the "finest weapons that research can develop."

The Committee erased from the budget a House proviso to reduce Service recruiting funds 50 per cent in fiscal '56.

Restrictions on legal training were lifted slightly to permit each of the Services to train three officers annually in the profession of law.

General provisions approved by the House and retained by the Senate would:

- Restrict shipment of household goods to a maximum of 11,000 pounds for top officers.

- Curtail funds for permanent changes of station.

- Boost dependent schooling allowance from $235 to $240.

- Continue restrictions on commissaries and maintain the present surcharge.

- Boost the amount that may be spent on individual family quarters from $14,040 to $20,000.

Senator Chavez said the added Air Force funds will permit the AF to increase by one-third the new equipment for heavy bomber and reconnaissance wings.

The additional money, he said, "will speed up the program, and will put the AF at its most effective stage in history."

He added that he couldn't disclose the specific use which will be made of the extra Air Force funds, but he said the amount will permit the Air Force to do the job the American people expect, and will make the USAF "Number One in the world today."

Some 12,000 National Guard enlisted men will be permitted to volunteer annually for eight weeks of basic combat training at Active Army installations under a new plan which goes into effect 1 July.

The new program will offer an inducement for NG recruits to complete their individual basic training in eight weeks, and will permit NG commanders to place more emphasis on unit type training during armory drills and summer field training.

At the end of the training period, the men will be returned to their State organizations prepared to take advanced individual training, and will be eligible for non-commissioned officer status.

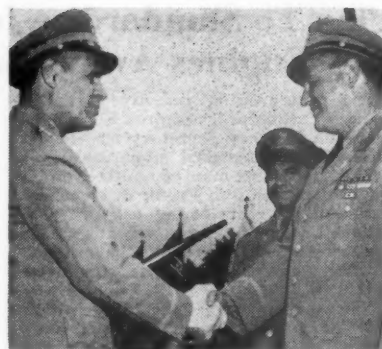

The Continental Army Command will be in charge of the overall program.

It will be completely fireproof, and contain modern consolidated dental, medical, physiotherapy, eye, ear, nose and throat clinic. It will be constructed of concrete and masonry, and will be air-conditioned.

Maj. Rathburn Writes Of Squad And Platoon

"Rifle Squad and Platoon in Defense," by Maj. Frank F. Rathburn, USA, has been published by The Military Service Publishing Company of Harrisburg, Pa.

The author, in his preface, explains that this book is for platoon and squad leaders, and deals only with the position defense. The book is a simplification of material from FM 7-10 "Rifle Company, Infantry Regiment," and reflects current thinking at The Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

Major Rathburn says the basic information on the tactics and techniques contained in this book is intended to "help the junior leader master more readily a few of the many skills that are required in the infantry of today and thereby enable him to move quickly on to more advanced reading and training."

You're looking at excitement at rest

It's something you can't miss.

Even as you see it standing at the curb, you can sense the pulse-quickening action this rakish Buick promises.

But nothing seen or heard can fully prepare you for the thrill you feel when you press the pedal of this automobile.

For here a new kind of excitement wells up in you—from a new kind of action that was never in any earth-bound vehicle before.

Beneath the shimmering grace that is Buick today is an automatic transmission that brings to earth the principle of the modern plane's variable pitch propeller.

It's Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—a transmission smooth to the infinite—and with twenty switch-pitch propeller-like blades waiting to work their magic.

In normal driving and cruising, these blades stay angled one way for big savings in gas mileage.

But when you need performance plus—as a pilot does for take-off and climb—you change the pitch of these blades just by pressing the pedal way down.

Instantly—and in absolute smoothness—you get a burst of accelerating power for getaway or for emergency passing on the road—a dazzling safety-surge of forward momentum that's thrilling beyond past experience.

It's a new kind of excitement on wheels that's taking the country by storm—that's sending Buick sales soaring to new best-seller highs. And it's an excitement brought to new peaks by the mightiest V8 horsepowers in all Buick history—and by the sweetest handling ever to grace a Buick.

Visit your Buick dealer for a turn at the wheel and see for yourself why it's literal fact—Thrill of The Year is Buick.

Cdr. Laning, USNA 140 Commands Seawolf

Cdr. Richard B. Laning, USN, the son of RADM. Richard H. Laning, MC, USN-Ret., has been named to command the USS Seawolf, second of the Navy's atomic powered submarines which is to be launched on 21 July at the Electric Boat Division shipyard of the General Dynamics Corp., Groton, Conn.

The Seawolf will be equipped with a different type of propulsion plant from that installed in the USS Nautilus. The Nautilus' power plant is called the Submarine Thermal Reactor and is cooled by high pressure water. The Seawolf's plant is called the Submarine Intermediate Reactor and is cooled by liquid sodium.

Cdr. Laning, a 1940 graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, served aboard the submarines USS Salmon and Stickleback during WWII. After the war, he completed specialized training in nuclear engineering and physics at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Calif., the University of California, at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Albuquerque, N. Mex. under the sponsorship of the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project.

Since April 1954, the Commander has been on duty at the Schenectady Operations Office of the Atomic Energy Commission in New York, where the prototype reactor for the Seawolf has been under construction.

USS Glacier—the largest icebreaker ever built in the free world has been commissioned; her first commanding officer is Cdr. E. H. Maher, USN.

The 310-foot vessel is considered a prototype in icebreaker construction. She is the most powerful (21,000 h.p.), strongest hulled, and best equipped icebreaker ever constructed for the U. S. Navy.

She has been assigned to Task Force 43, under the command of Capt. Gerald L. Ketchum, USN, which will sail this Winter to the Antarctic as part of "Expedition Deep Freeze."

Submarine Squadron Two—Capt. Charles M. Henderson, USN, has relieved Capt. Karl R. Wheland, USN, as Squadron Commander. Capt. Henderson also assumed duties as Commander Submarine Refitting and Training Group, New London, Conn. Captain Wheland has been ordered to the attack transport USS Bayfield for duty as Commanding Officer. The Bayfield is attached to the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force.

USS Monterey—has joined the Atlantic Reserve Fleet in Philadelphia. She arrived from Pensacola, Fla., on 13 June. The small carrier has served for about two years as a practice landing platform for qualifying Naval aviators in carrier operation. Upon her departure, her complement of officers and men were commended by VADM. Austin K. Doyle, USN, Chief of Naval Air Training with headquarters at Pensacola, for their cooperation, dependability, and "can do" spirit.

USS Raton—is now engaged in a six-month tour of duty in the Western Pacific. The radar picket submarine, under the command of Cdr. James K. Willis, USN, is assigned to Submarine Division 53, a unit of Submarine Squadron Five. This is the first Far Eastern cruise for the Raton since WWII when she sank 13 Japanese ships during six war patrols.

THE 4TH MARINE REGIMENT (Reinf.) command post at the Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, T. H., was given official appearance this month with the mounting of this hand-carved replica of the regimental insignia over the entrance. The hanging, witnessed by Col. Wood B. Kyle, regimental commander, ended six weeks of preparation which saw the individual pieces carved, assembled and painted.

Another interested spectator was Col. Frederic A. Ramsey, chief of staff of the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force, who commanded the 4th Marines last year in Nara, Japan.

It was largely through the Colonel's efforts that the emblem came into existence. Following the lead of the 9th Marines, 3d Marine Division, FMF, Col. Ramsey inaugurated a contest among the regiment. Cpl. Scott Eldson of the 2d Battalion, since transferred to the Mainland, submitted the winning design.

Four Marine Divisions Meet In D. C. Next Week

WWII members of the four divisions won 89 Congressional Medals of Honor, nine Presidential Unit Citations, and over 400 Navy Crosses.

Further information concerning the reunion may be obtained by writing to: Joint Marine Reunion Committee, P. O. Box 606, Alexandria, Va.

ON THE JOB . . . ... not "on the way"

Technician operating an aerosoloscope, or germ-counter, new Army Chemical Corps device for measuring germs, radioactive and other airborne particles.

This ingenious device will add immeasurably to both civilian and military safety in the event of germ warfare . . . but it is useless without a skilled technician on the job to operate it. That's one reason why specialists are flown from one important assignment to another, via the Scheduled Airlines—which get them there five times faster than slow surface travel.

Then too, the Scheduled Airlines save the military millions each year in pay and per diem dollars. So, next time you're moving one man or many—or traveling yourself—call a Scheduled Airlines representative. Compare the costs, speed and dependability of Scheduled flight with any other means of travel.

Gen. Ogle Honored

Air Force Surgeon General Maj. Gen. Dan C. Ogle was the recipient of two high civilian awards this month.

He was awarded an Honorary Fellowship in the American College of Chest Physicians during the convocation ceremony of the College in Atlantic City 4 June. On 12 June, he attended the centennial commencement of Eureka College, Ill., his alma mater, and was presented a citation for being representative of outstanding achievement in his particular field.

Cambridge Research Gets Larger Quarters

The Air Force Cambridge Research Center, located for years in Cambridge, Mass., has moved to larger quarters at Laurence G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, Mass.

Only a few military and civilian personnel still remain at the old headquarters. However, they will move to Hanscom Field when additional construction is completed.

The research and development center, headed by Maj. Gen. R. C. Maude, specializes in work in electronics, geophysics and operational applications. It also conducts flight tests for many important scientific projects, including Project Lincoln.

Brig. Gen. Schlatter Heads MAAG In Saudi Arabia

Brig. Gen. George F. Schlatter, USAF, has been named Chief, Military Assistance Advisory Group (MAAG), Saudi Arabia, and will arrive in Dhahran 27 June.

General Schlatter has been Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations of the Air Training Command at Scott AFB, Ill., since August 1952. His successor at ATC has not yet been named.

General Schlatter succeeds Brig. Gen. Orrin L. Grover, USAF, who was assigned last April as Commander of the 3450th Technical Training Wing, Francis E. Warren AFB, Cheyenne, Wyo.

Please send in notice of your change of address promptly.

GENERAL LAURENCE S. KUTER'S promotion to his four star rank became effective while he was a passenger aboard a MATS Douglas C-54 en route to his new post as Commander Far East Command, so the oath was administered 8,500 feet up by the aircraft commander, Maj. John F. Gonge, USAF. Photo shows the General being congratulated by five-year-old Gordon Ellis, son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Howard C. Ellis, who were aboard plane, while another passenger, Brig. Gen. Harold R. Maddux, Deputy Commander MATS' Pacific Division, looks on.

Gen. Maddux Named To Manpower Office

Brig. Gen. Harold R. Maddux, Deputy Commander of Pacific Division, Military Air Transport Service, Hawaii, since 1952, has been named Director of Manpower Requirements in the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower and Personnel. He assumes his new duties at the end of July.

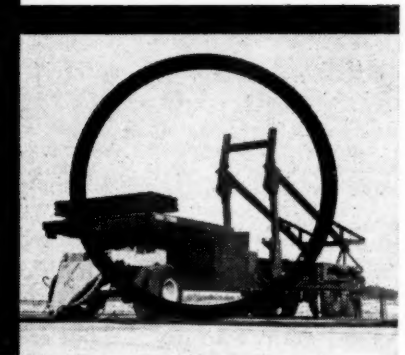

General Maddux will replace Brig. Gen. George S. Cassady, who has been Deputy Commander of MATS' Continental Division at Kelly AFB, Tex. A 1933 graduate of West Point, General Maddux completed flight training in 1934.

During WW II, he commanded the 99th Pursuit Group, the first Negro combat unit in the Army Air Force. Prior to his present assignment in Hawaii, General Maddux was at Air Force Headquarters where he was Secretary of the Air Staff and later Chief, Air Base Division, in the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations.

Lackland & Hamilton Medicos Change Posts

In the event of surprise attack, today's new and more powerful USAF Tactical Air Command can now carry war to the enemy anywhere in the world—around the clock and in any weather.

Here at a glance are some of the elements that might be used in such an attack and which are contributing to Tac Air's new mobility and striking power.

In modern warfare, major fixed bases are certain to become targets for initial enemy action. The Martin zero-length launcher makes possible swift mobility and advance-area operation of the TM-61 Matador tactical missile and—if need be—of piloted jet fighters.

In addition, new versions of U. S. Air Force's B-57 bomber, a major tactical weapon, are now being developed for service.

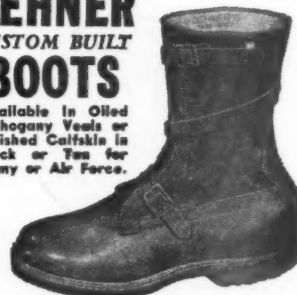

And for tomorrow's Tactical Air Command arsenal, new and more powerful Martin weapons systems are on the way.

Gen. Rawlings Represents Defense At Air Show

General E. W. Rawlings, USAF, Commander of Air Materiel Command, will be senior liaison officer for the Department of Defense at the 1955 National Aircraft show for the third consecutive year.

General Rawlings will act on request of the Department of Defense. The show will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., over the Labor Day weekend.

The AMC Commander has named Brig. Gen. Ralph O. Brownfield, USAF, Deputy Commander of Middletown (Pa.) Air Materiel Area, as project officer to handle details for the show involving service participation. Last year Col. Paul L. Barton, USAF, Commander of Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, was project officer for the show, which was held at Dayton, Ohio.

ALMA MATER HONOR

Maj. Gen. S. R. Brentnall, USAF, Assistant Chief of Staff for Guided Missiles, has been awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Science, by Phillips University, his Alma Mater, at Enid, Okla. General Brentnall made the Commencement address 25 May, on the subject, "The Price of Leadership."

Turner AFB Choir Tops

A choir from Turner AFB, Ga., has been judged the best in the Strategic Air Command, and will represent SAC in the USAF Choir contest.

Second and third places in the SAC elimination contest were won, respectively, by Barksdale AFB, La., and Offutt AFB, Nebr. The choirs were required to sing the official Air Force hymn and a selection of their own choice.

President Names USNA Grad

President Eisenhower has nominated U. S. Naval Academy graduate Francis Leonard Castillo to be a second lieutenant in the Air Force.

GOC Seminar Set 19-26 June At Colo. College

A nationwide seminar on civilian Ground Observer Corps air defense activities will be held at Colorado College, Colorado Springs, 19-26 June. Keynote speaker will be Col. Robert L. Scott, USAF, director of Information Services for the Air Force.

The seminar will explore the role of state communities in the civil air defense system. It will be attended by some 60 military coordinators in the grades from major to colonel whose duties apply at state level. Officers from Canada and Alaska are being invited to attend the session because of the close coordination of GOC operations in those areas with the observer program in this country.

Col. Broun H. Mayall, USAF, Director of Civil Air Defense for the Continental Air Defense Command, said: "This second annual get-together of military personnel in the Ground Observer Corps program is for the purpose of exploring state organizations whose resources can be encouraged to work in direct support of the air defense mission. As before, we are preparing and getting the support of some of the outstanding civilian and military educators as lecturers and seminar directors during the week-long meeting. Fundamentally, civilian participation is, or should be, a matter of community support in all its phases. The persons we are asking to teach about such activities are experts in this field."

Solar research boosts altitude power output of gas turbine generator sets

FLYING ELECTRONIC TEST-BEDS need plenty of power in flight. So Solar "Mars" gas turbine auxiliary power units have been ordered for the Convair C-131B. Two APU's, each hung in a pod, will be installed on each plane.

With the Solar units, an ample and versatile supply of electricity is assured. The easily demountable gas turbine driven generators can both be direct current units, or both alternating current, or one of each can be installed. As much as 30 kw d-c, or 40 kva a-c, can be supplied at 25,000 feet. This high power output results from major design improvements in the proven Mars engine.

Mars gas turbine APU's are already specified equipment on the Douglas C-124C and the Lockheed C-121C. They have demonstrated their reliability and trouble-free service life by logging thousands of hours with only routine maintenance. Recently these Solar units were updated from 500 hours to 750 hours between overhauls.

Light, compact Mars APU's can solve your airborne power needs. Write to Solar today for more information about these remarkable gas turbine generators!

A "Breakthrough" for Research? There are a number of indications of a growing recognition of the top-importance of research to national security.

One of the most significant was the recent report of the Hoover Commission criticizing the military services for not being sufficiently forward looking and not spending enough money for research. "Our strategy and tactics," the Commission said, "can be superior to those of potential aggressors only to the extent that research and development provides superior design of weapons." Coming from a group almost all of whose other recommendations have been aimed at less spending and the curtailment of government activities, this is heartening indeed.

Stirred, perhaps, by the Hoover recommendation, Defense Secretary Wilson asked the Senate Appropriations Committee for more leeway in spending money for research. That Committee, in turn, has recommended that the Department be authorized to transfer additional funds from other categories to research and development, if such is considered necessary. At the same time the Committee increased by $10,000,000 the Department's Emergency Fund, which may be devoted to research and development.

On another front, the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended, and the Senate approved, the restoration of the $8,800,000 which the House had cut from the funds for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics as carried in the Independent Offices bill. That measure will go to conference where every effort will be made to retain the Senate figure for NACA. The Senate action merely restored the total to the figure originally recommended by President Eisenhower. The cuts proposed by the House would have had a crippling effect on this vital agency. Few other than key men in the industry and in the Armed Services development programs realize the terrific impact NACA work has on our air defense. There is not a plane flying that does not owe something to the research and development carried on in the laboratories of the NACA. If its activities should be curtailed it will not be today's defense that will suffer—it will be tomorrow's, and tomorrow it will be too late to correct today's deficiencies in research.

We hope this renewed interest in ferreting out and "banking" knowledge and ideas results in action and money. If so Defense will have been well served.

Discrimination Against Retired. A year has gone by and nothing has been done about abolishing the gross discrimination against retired Service personnel in the matter of tax credits.

The present revenue law, passed by the preceding Congress, grants an income tax credit (worth up to $240 a year) to all persons retired under any Federal, State or municipal retirement system. In the over-65-years-of-age group Service personnel are automatically included, but for some unfathomable reason retired Service personnel are specifically excluded in the under-65 group. Thus, retired school teachers, policemen, dog catchers, as well as all types of former state, municipal and Federal workers, benefit from this tax aid—except Service personnel less than 65 years old.

Immediately upon enactment of the law, the blatant discrimination was discovered and attacked vigorously by personages from Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson down. Promises were made that it would be corrected promptly. In the House Ways and Means Committee there are six bills pending to wipe out the discrimination. One of these bills was introduced by the Committee Chairman, Representative Jere Cooper (D-Tenn.), and has the backing of the American Legion, while another is sponsored by Representative Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), ranking minority member who was Committee chairman at the time the discriminatory legislation was passed.

SATURDAY, 18 JUNE 1955

In the Senate there is likewise ample evidence of support for corrective legislation—but no action. When the Service pay bill was on the floor, Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), who has plugged vigorously to put the Services on a par with civilians in this matter, introduced an amendment to remove the discrimination. Senator Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), Chairman of the Armed Services Committee, agreed with Senator Humphrey as to the justice of his amendment, but urged that it not be attached to the pay bill. He promised that it would be taken up in his committee instead. So Senator Humphrey dropped his amendment, but nothing has happened since.

If action is taken this session it would be possible to make it retroactive so that retired Service folk under 65 years of age could file amended returns and get a rebate on the 1954 income tax. However, if action is not taken until next session, it is not likely that Congress would be willing to make the effective date so far back.

We urge the Committee chairmen to call up the bills now before them. There is plenty of support and no apparent opposition to granting justice to these retired Service personnel. It just takes action—let's have it!

Medical Care

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

There has been and continues to be a lot of discussion on means to make the service more inviting as a career. Along with innumerable comments, a most prized statement has been "Give us better medical care for our dependents and I will stay in the service."

This problem is not new. In fact, General Ridgeway, while Chief of Staff of the Army, expressed concern over the falling morale of the services, and placed the number two cause of this problem on the increasing loss of fringe benefits. This very common and often-repeated suggestion is very superficial. A more objective observation would reveal a number of fundamental facts as quite obvious. By far the most serious of such facts is a lack of soldierly qualities in our way of life— austerity, self-sacrifice, discipline and a clear-eyed look into the reality of the problem.

Most of us have been brought up to think that what our forefathers obtained by work, we can maintain by asking. However, by bitter experience we find that such is not so—health, independence, freedom and the every day pleasures of living are not stable, but must be continually fought for if they are to be preserved. Hence, the reason for the Air Force and our being in the Air Force. Nevertheless, we want the above niceties of life free and with little sacrifice to ourselves.

It has been an oft quoted statement that health and reputation are man's most valuable assets and should be treated as such. However, in the service, such is ridicule in respect to health. For suddenly, it is placed free to the serviceman and his family, and when such is free, it is immediately abused. At the present time it is not only abused, but criticized and, when given and accepted, seldom appreciated.

As statistics are the by-word of the day, it is of interest that the liquor bill per capita for the American is $67.13, the per capita spent for our schools is $15.00 and for health $8.00. To the average American, a party is a must, a car a demand, while health and its means of maintenance is a government problem.

Let us face the facts—medicine today is no cheap commodity if it is to be administered properly. The medical record in the recent Korean conflict speaks for such quality. The training of a physician is long and costly and to the military even more so. The primary purpose of the medical service is the care of military personnel. If this care cannot be extended to dependents, criticism is not the answer. To be sure a small sacrifice on the outside will obtain it.

Is something like a Blue Cross program entirely too sensible to merit consideration or must this important problem depend on a smoke screen of confusion in order to promote a socialistic scheme?

In the same token, morale and the desire to be in the Air Force does not depend on fringe benefits—if it does, we are not an Air Force of soldierly people, for one can no more buy morale than one can buy allies.

Naval Aviator for USMC Comdt.

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Recently you ran an article discussing the various senior Marine officers who might be likely successors to General Shepherd. In this article you mention that Lt. Gen. William O. Brice's "appointment to the top spot, however, would be unusual since a Naval Aviator has never held the post of Commandant." This seems a little bit unfair editorializing in what is, presumably, a news story and is the sort of thing for which reporters, on our newspapers at least, would be criticized.

It would certainly be strange in this air minded age, if taking aviation as a career automatically limited a man's opportunities regardless of his qualifications. It seems reasonable that no one gets to be a Lt. General in the Marine Corps without possessing the necessary qualifications to be considered for Commandant. General Brice's record is such that he should not be so cavalierly dismissed. You might as well announce that no Air Force general should ever be considered for Chief of Staff.

ConAC's 27-Function Mission Involves 330,000 Officers and Airmen

BY LT. GEN. LEON W. JOHNSON, USAF
Commander, Continental Air Command

CONTINENTAL Air Command, from the standpoint of military personnel affected by its mission, is one of the larger major commands of the Air Force. At present, over 330,000 officers and airmen come within the purview of ConAC's functional responsibilities.

The assignment of certain responsibilities affecting this unusually large personnel group is stated in two major segments of ConAC's 27-function mission. The first of these is responsibility for administration, logistical support and training of the Air Force Reserve. The other is supervision of training and inspection of the Air National Guard.

The largest military personnel group thus affected is composed of approximately 250,000 officers and airmen assigned to the Air Force Reserve. Next is the Air National Guard's over 50,000-man complement. Since members of this vast manpower pool are residents of the 48 states, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska, ConAC's responsibility extends beyond the limits of the continental boundaries.

Charged with responsibility for accomplishment of its extensive Reserve Forces' commitments—as well as other elements of its mission—is ConAC's comparatively small manpower representation of approximately 23,000 officers and airmen in the active military service and 7,000 civilian employees.

Other ConAC responsibilities include: (a) Training and maintaining the Aviation Engineer Force (Army and Air Force troops responsible for airfield construction in actual emergencies) in the continental United States in a state of operational readiness for deployment, (b) Processing personnel at the two main installations through which pass thousands of Air Force officers and airmen annually going to and returning from assignments overseas, (c) Mobilizing units and individuals of the Air Force Reserve in event of war or other emergency, (d) Maintaining Air Force cooperation with the Civil Air Patrol and the extensive Explorer program of the Boy Scouts of America.

To facilitate the performance of its principal mission elements, from its headquarters at Mitchel Air Force Base, Hempstead, New York, ConAC has delegated regional functional responsibility to four major subordinate commands: the First, Fourth, Tenth, and Fourteenth Air Forces.

Lt. Gen. Johnson

FIRST AIR FORCE also makes its headquarters at Mitchel Air Force Base, which is near New York City. Included in its geographical area are the states of Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

FOURTH AIR FORCE maintains headquarters at Hamilton Air Force Base, San Rafael, California, near San Francisco. Its area is composed of the states of Arizona, California, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, and Washington.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE TENTH AIR FORCE is at Selfridge Air Force Base, Mt. Clemens, Michigan, near Detroit. Components of its area are Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

Fourteenth Air Force's headquarters is at Robins Air Force Base, Macon, Georgia, and its land area is composed of the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Texas.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE AVIATION ENGINEER FORCE is at Wolters Air Force Base, Mineral Wells, Texas.

At the primary operating level throughout ConAC's four air forces are the Air Reserve Centers. These centers occupy government-owned and civilian-leased airfields and facilities in or near large areas of population and provide administrative, operational and training support to their assigned Reserve units.

There are two main types of centers—those supporting Reserve organizations equipped with operational aircraft and those supporting Reserve units not requiring flying equipment. The former are designated Air Reserve Flying Centers and the latter Air Reserve Centers.

There are now a total of twenty-three Air Reserve Flying Centers, of which nine are troop carrier wings, six are fighter-bomber wings, two are tactical reconnaissance wings, and six are flying training wings. Under a recently announced plan the combat units of the Reserve will consist of nine fighter-bomber wings, thirteen airlift wings, and two tactical bomber wings.

Tactical units of the Reserve's fighter bomber wings are equipped with F-80 and T-33 jet aircraft and will receive F-84s shortly. Troop carrier wings are converting from C-46s to modern C-119s.

It is intended that, with the exception of the airlift wings, all Air Force Reserve flying units will eventually be jet-equipped.

In the event of war, the fighter-bomber wings of the Air Force Reserve will have a primary mission on D-Day of supporting the Continental Air Defense Command, and would subsequently be assigned to Tactical Air Command when released by Continental Air Defense Command.

The Reserve's two air depot wings, which are being trained to provide depot type support to other combat units, have mobilization assignments to the Air Materiel Command.

The Reserve wings are organized in accordance with Tables of Organization and Distribution applicable to "like-type" wings of the Regular air establishment.

Sub-wing airfield based units of the Reserve include five Airways and Air Communications Service Squadrons and six Aerial Port Squadrons. Twenty-three more of the former type units and three of the latter are programmed for future activation by ConAC. The Military Air Transport Service is the mobilization gaining command of the AACS units, and the Tactical Air Command of the Aerial Port Squadrons.

Under the Air Reserve Center concept, in over 300 cities and towns throughout the nation, there are Air Reserve groups and squadrons, the members of which assemble at regularly scheduled intervals for training in facilities designated as Air Reserve Centers. These Reservists, who constitute the largest unit-assigned segment of the Air Force Reserve population, give the air establishment a populous and influential representation in, and contact with, the American public.

At Air Reserve Centers in the larger cities, ConAC has established organizations known as numbered Air Reserve Centers. It is the mission of these organizations to provide general and specialized training, administrative supervision and support for non-flying Air Reserve units and discharge certain field responsibilities of the ConAC Air Force commanders. Designed to be the focal point of Reserve activity in their respective areas, there are now seventy in existence with nine more scheduled for organization by the end of Fiscal Year 1955. The Reserve program calls for an eventual increase in the numbered Air Reserve Centers to provide as complete coverage as the military requirements dictate.

The Air Reserve Records Center is another important ConAC agency. A special activity of ConAC headquarters, it is located in Denver, Colorado. The Records Center is the repository of all master personnel records of Reservists not in active military service, and is the unit of assignment for all Reservists not affiliated with Reserve training organizations. Many of these unaffiliated Reservists participate in the Reserve training program by enrolling in military correspondence courses prepared by the Air University.

Activation of the Records Center last March consolidated the Reserve record-keeping function formerly handled by the four ConAC air forces. This consolidation resulted not only in greater uniformity and efficiency in this important activity, but produced substantial financial savings. During Fiscal Year 1954 over $2,000,000 was saved, primarily in personnel economies. It is estimated that over $4,000,000 will be saved during Fiscal Year 1955.

ConAC provides Regular Air Force personnel to work closely with the Air National Guard's 27 flying wings and myriad ground elements as ANG air advisors. These air advisors are responsible for required ConAC supervision of training of the Guard's units.

The Air Guard employs the tactical squadron type structure, dispersing its wings into some 87 squadrons to provide extensive coverage of the U. S. and its territorial possessions of Puerto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska.

The ANG's six fighter interceptor wings are being trained for Continental Air Defense Command mobilization assignment and are equipped with operational aircraft of the F-94, F-89, and F-86 jet types. Members of 17 ANG units are currently serving on alert status with Regular interceptor units of the Continental Air Defense Command, assisting in the important mission of providing for the air defense of the United States.

Tactical Air Command is the mobilization gaining command for the Air Guard's 17 fighter bomber wings. These wings, equipped with F-86, F-84 and F-80 jets, will be assigned initially to Continental Air Defense Command for the 90-day period beginning on M-Day.

The ANG's two light bomber and two tactical reconnaissance wings also hold TAC mobilization assignments. The former fly B-26s and the latter RB-26s and RF-51s, with RF-80s due to replace the latter propeller-type in the near future.

Under the announced revised plan the Air National Guard will consist of twenty-three fighter-interceptor wings, two tactical bomber wings, and two tactical reconnaissance wings. The Air Guard is rapidly becoming an all jet force.

The ANG's numerous ground type units include Air Control and Warning, Airways and Air Communications, Weather, Communications, and Aviation Engineer squadrons. These organizations have mobilization assignments to major commands which have Regular Air Force units with similar functional missions.

In summary, the fulfillment of ConAC's mission—the training, development and maintenance of the Reserve Forces of the Air Force in a state of mobilization readiness for augmentation of the active air establishment in time of national danger—is of vital importance to the United States Air Force and the country at large.

Hoover Group Scolds Congress; Charges "Invasion" Of Military Procurement Field

The Hoover Commission has hit out at Congress in connection with procurement and disposal of military real estate.

Present law requires the Pentagon to seek Capitol Hill approval each time the military departments buy or dispose of any real property worth more than $25,000. The Services are required to come into agreement with the House and Senate Armed Services Committees in such cases, despite the fact that the property acquisition already has been authorized by law.

This requirement, the Hoover group says, "is an invasion of the executive by the legislative branch," and should be "repealed."

The Commission's latest report covers "Real Property Management" in the Government. A Task Force headed by John R. Lotz, former Chairman of the Board of Stone and Webster Engineering Corp., made the study.

The group found that the Federal Government owns 472 million acres of land in the continental U.S. (an amount equal to one-fourth the land area of all 48 States). The Defense Department, the report states, has a total real property investment of more than $21 billion in the continental U.S. alone, and could do a much better job managing it.

Functions and responsibilities of real property management in the three Services are well defined within each service, the report states, but they are not similar and "unfortunately have been developed independently of the Department of Defense."

The group noted, however, that a study currently underway at the Pentagon is aimed at developing a uniform accounting and reporting system. In the meantime, the Task Force said it found "that the Navy is at present establishing a cost accounting system at variance with that employed by both the Army and Air Force."

The Commission Task Force estimated that the Pentagon could dispose of approximately 100 properties in the industrial reserves "which are in poor condition, are marginal producers, are obsolete for current or future mobilization, or are in direct competition with private industry." The action wouldn't jeopardize national security, the group said, and would eliminate an estimated annual maintenance cost of $30 million. If the plants were sold for only 15 per cent of their original cost they would return $225 million to Government coffers.

In connection with the Commission recommendation to repeal the law requiring committee approval for Pentagon acquisitions and disposals greater than $25,000, the task force said: "Since no time limit is set within which the committees must act, there is often a loss of time which, in many cases, is more disturbing than immediate disapproval."

"The time lag frequently amounts to a year, and in one case the decision was delayed for over two years."

The Task Force urged that the Committees be given a 60-day time limit in which to act. If no decision was forthcoming in that time, the group urged that "the project should automatically be considered approved."

The Commission, however, ruled that the whole procedure is an invasion of the rights of the executive branch of Government and that it should be done away with.

The Commission also asked that:

- Management responsibility for all industrial properties owned or leased by the Government and presently classified in the National Industrial Reserve and all the machine tools and equipment presently in the NIR, be returned to the Defense Department by the General Services Administration.

- The NIR Review Committee should be abolished.

- Responsibility for supervising the management of the industrial properties of the Defense Department presently classified in the NIR and the Departmental Industrial Reserve, including the Army's Arsenal System and the Navy's Active Departmental Industrial Facilities, be vested in the Secretary of Defense.

- The Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization be authorized by legislation to establish the general policies governing retention and disposition of industrial properties for mobilization purposes and report thereon annually to Congress.

MEMO For Journal Readers

A BRIEF FISCAL RESPITE will be enjoyed by top Pentagonians following Congressional wind-up on the FY '56 budget. But soon after SecDef Wilson's mid-July weekend work-play conference at Quantico, Va., Service Chiefs will begin to do battle with the FY '57 funds problem. With an election-year tax reduction target commanding earnest attention of politicians, strong efforts can be expected to reduce defense spending. The Air Force, adding wings and accelerating delivery of certain aircraft, certainly will ask more money than it will get for FY '56. The Army, on the other hand, will resist strongly any further cuts, and so will the Navy and Marine Corps. In short, the dollar-free budget vacation won't last through midsummer.

ADMIRAL RADFORD'S LIVING QUARTERS are slated for a major expansion. His present home contains 3600 square feet, compared with 15,320 for the Marine Commandant, 10,110 for the Army CofS; 8,320 for the CNO; and 6,800 for the AF CofS. The House Armed Services Committee has O.K.'d spending $300,000 to build new homes for the JCS Chairman, and for 2 officers and 2 NCO's on his staff. SPECIAL COMMUNICATIONS FACILITIES will be installed for instant and protected link-up with the White House and Pentagon. The Chairman's home will be on the grounds of the U. S. Naval Observatory; this means the CNO, who also lives there, will always have a neighbor—perhaps an Army or Air Force general—who outranks him.

SECDEF WILSON'S FLYAWAY from the Pentagon, accompanied by Admiral Radford, JCS Chairman, made Operation Alert a big day for Army Aviation. The evacuation helicopter was piloted by 1st Lt. Richard C. Cauble, USA, with WOJG Thomas Cruz, USA, co-pilot. An Army aviator, who watched the departure, said disappointedly: "It's too bad General Twining didn't go along." THE AF CofS left aboard an Air Force helicopter.

PENTAGON NEWSMEN who followed Mr. Wilson from his office to the waiting Piasecki H-21 helicopter noted that Asst. SecDef McNeil, the Comptroller, carried a slightly larger briefcase than the Secretary. The suggestion was made that Mr. McNeil had tucked away an extra billion or two to tide the Defense Department over in case of an unforeseen emergency during the alert exercise. OPERATION BRIEFCASE could well have been the designation for the Pentagon departures. All officials had at least one; many were two-fisted briefcase toters.

ASST. SECNAV PRATT, in charge of personnel, is taking action to insure that the several thousand Reserve officers who applied unsuccessfully for Regular commissions, do not feel that this is a reflection on their professional ability or standing. Mr. Pratt points out that in some cases officers with "exceptional records" were not chosen because of such factors as medical defects or because "their age in grade would put them in an unfair competitive position with other regular Navy officers who would be their contemporaries in rank." THE VAST MAJORITY of Reserve officers not excepted for augmentation can expect to be kept on active duty indefinitely, if they so desire, the Assistant SecNav said.

USE OF EM MESS STEWARDS at the U. S. Military (219) and Naval (332) Academies is criticized by the Senate Appropriations Committee. The legislators say that "soldiers and sailors who patriotically enlist to aid in the defense of our country and inductees who have been drafted from their families have the right to expect their abilities to be better utilized for our Nation's welfare." A report is asked from the DoD prior to 1 Jan.

LAND LEASE DIFFICULTIES which have curtailed Army "atomic" maneuvers will be eased with the decision to reopen Camp Polk, La., provided State and property owners will insure use of a 7 million acre maneuver area "on a continuing basis." The camp was placed in stand-by status a year ago.

THE NAVY IS WAITING to see what the reaction will be to the Defense Department's green light for celebration of the Army Birthday on 14 June. If there are few complaints, it's a good bet the Navy will ask similar O.K. for a birthday fete. THROUGH THE YEARS Navy Day was celebrated on 27 Oct., which is the birthday of President Theodore Roosevelt; actual Navy birthday is 10 April. THE MARINES annually hold a special celebration on 10 Nov. to make their birthday anniversary. What the AIR FORCE will do is not certain, but seemingly if all the other Services were staging festive events on an annual basis, the Air Force would get in the act.

WHEELS SET IN MOTION months ago resulted in considerable emphasis this year on birthday celebrations by individual branches of the Army. That festivity likely will be TONED DOWN next year in favor of the single Army Birthday fete on 14 June.

SECDEF WILSON'S COOLNESS at a recent news conference to the Hoover Commission proposal that the Defense Department step up its expenditures for basic research did not prevent Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, USAF, DC/S for Development, from asserting this week that "our basic research efforts must be greatly increased." The Hoover Report said the present $20 million DoD outlay for this purpose was "inadequate." The AF general, expressing concern over the rate of SCIENTIFIC PROGRESS IN RUSSIA, expressed doubt that the flow from basic research sources in the U. S. "is anywhere near adequate for our future growth."

TWENTY-YEAR RETIREMENT privileges were stressed this year in campus career briefings for thousands of college graduates entering the Armed Forces. All of the Services HAVE BEEN TROUBLED by the heavy loss of the ROTC officers upon completion of their obligated service. Speaking to the Harvard NROTC, Asst. SecNav Albert Pratt pointed out that officers who stay in for 20 years could look forward to retirement as a commander with an income of about $300 per month, at age 42-44.

AN APPROPRIATE HOST will be on hand for the All-Army Golf and Tennis Championships 1-5 August at Ft. Meade, Md. Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, USA, Second Army Commander, has been designated to supervise the tournaments; he is widely recognized as one of the top Service golfers—is a frequent links companion of President Eisenhower.

THE FIRST OF JULY will be a big day for the Army. General Maxwell D. Taylor, USA, will be serving his first day as Chief of Staff. A new budget, calling for major manpower cuts, goes into effect. Operation Gyroscope begins officially. The NCO-Specialist program also goes into effect 1 July.

THE ARMY DOESN'T THINK that "it will be of benefit to the military establishment" to tell a cosmetic manufacturer how many men are stationed on a particular base, or how many have their wives with them. An official circular, signed by the CofS, indicates to commanders that answers to an Armed Forces Marketing Questionnaire put out by a cosmetic firm will not help the cause of national defense.

8,000 TON PRESS

starts production of extrusions in September!

Second 8,000 ton heavy extrusion press soon to be operating at Kaiser Aluminum's Halethorpe, Maryland plant

THE FIRST of Kaiser Aluminum's two 8,000 ton heavy extrusion presses at Halethorpe will start operation in September—producing longer and wider extrusions up to 17" in cross section.

These new heavy extrusion presses—built in conjunction with the Air Force Heavy Press Program—are an important addition to Kaiser Aluminum's existing extrusion facilities.

The new Halethorpe heavy extrusion plant is completely equipped and fully integrated for the production of heavy extrusions exclusively. It contains the most modern heat-treating and finishing equipment, die shop and laboratory.

Included are both vertical and horizontal heat treating furnaces, a 1,500,000 pound stretcher, modern handling equipment for large extrusions, and shipping and inspection facilities.

In addition, the plant contains a modern remelting and casting department, homogenization furnaces, aging and annealing ovens, and induction billet heaters.

The second of the two giant presses will insure air frame manufacturers against delays and disrupted schedules due to temporary equipment shutdowns.

Major advantages to aircraft and other industries

The large extrusions to be produced by Kaiser Aluminum's two 8,000 ton presses offer potentially huge savings in both money and man-hours to the aircraft, transportation, electrical and other industries.

The use of these large extrusions will, in many applications, eliminate the costly production and assembly of smaller component parts.

Company engineers should prepare designs promptly in order to overcome the required lead-time and benefit from the presses' early operations.

Kaiser Aluminum engineers with long experience in extrusions are eager to work with you on your designs. If you would like to see how heavy aluminum extrusions fit into your production, you are urged to take immediate advantage of this service. Contact Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Sales, Inc. General Sales Office, Palmolive Bldg., Chicago 11, Illinois. Executive Office, Kaiser Bldg., Oakland 12, California.

it's too late, now!

Yes, he waited a little too long to join the Armed Forces Medical Aid Association. Now dependents' hospital bills, surgery fees, medication charges — are stacking up. They would have all been covered in a policy secured through AFMAA.

AFMAA is a non-profit, all-serviceman organization set up to get health insurance for your dependents. Membership costs only $5.50 a month for wife only, $8.00 with kids. Write today for info—while you've still got time.

10 years of post-war progress in military aviation

These are some of the aircraft and missiles developed and built by Douglas within the past decade to provide solutions for almost every logistic and tactical problem confronting our military establishment.

But more important to our national defense than the aircraft themselves, is the experienced personnel that brings them into being. At Douglas this experience dates back 35 years, and is spread among thousands of men and women whose combined talents made possible: Globemaster's lift of 50,000-lb. payloads; Skyray's record of 753.4 m.p.h.; Skyrocket's speed of 1327 m.p.h.; new military horizons opened by such jets as the A3D, B-66 and A4D; guided missiles like Nike and rockets like Honest John.

This vast arsenal of experience made possible the Douglas concept of more performance per pound of plane; which is another way of saying—more defense for your tax dollar.

F4D Skyray

Only carrier plane to hold speed record

C-124 Globemaster

Biggest production transport, 25-ton payload

A4D Skyhawk

Can take off from small carrier with A-bomb

Honest John

Delivers atomic or high explosive warhead

YC-124B

First military transport to use turboprop power

X-3

Jet research plane, performance classified

it's been the Policy of the services since 1922

Even though Ford was still making the Model "T" back in 1922 when USAA was organized, automobiles were already beginning to take on what was then referred to as the "streamlined look."

Horses then outnumbered automobiles but people had begun to talk about traffic problems and accidents were on the increase.

To meet the need of dependable low-cost automobile insurance for officers of the U.S. Armed Forces faced with their varied assignments, United Services Automobile Association was organized.

During all of its 33 years, USAA has been a non-profit organization, managed by active and retired officers. The savings made by pooling insurance funds of a preferred risk group are returned to policyholders in the form of liberal dividends. For many years USAA policyholders in the various States have enjoyed savings exceeding 40%. During 1954 nearly 6 million dollars in dividends were returned on 282,843 policies.

Membership in USAA is open to active and retired commissioned and warrant officers of the U.S. Armed Forces in the U.S.A., its possessions and territories; in Canada, Cuba, and the Canal Zone; in Japan, the Philippines, and certain U.S. military bases in the Pacific as well as Western Continental Europe.

With a USAA policy you enjoy a confident feeling of protection. You are insured with the oldest, largest and strongest non-profit organization serving officers of the U.S. Armed Forces with automobile insurance. You know that you are covered in numerous areas where our armed forces serve, and claims will be quickly settled, even in the most out-of-the way places.

When it's time to insure . . . be sure to give yourself the best . . . and save, too. Insure with USAA!

Lubrication Intervals for TELETYPE 28

60 wpm—3,000 hours operation or 1 year
75 wpm—2,400 hours operation or 9 mos.
100 wpm—1,500 hours operation or 6 mos.
(Based on 8-hour day operation)

Compare them with any other telegraph printer

As you can see, the lubrication interval for the new Teletype Page Printer is extended beyond anything before known in printing telegraphy. In fact, all elements of the new Teletype Printer have been designed with attention-free operation in mind.

There's the new featherweight carriage, featuring a 2-ounce Typebox, that replaces the conventional typebasket carriage weighing 10 times as much... and the all-steel clutch which eliminates the frequent lubrication required by the felt clutch in most other telegraph printers.

Motions are safer, loads are lighter, there's less friction, less heat.

The result is that this new Teletype Printer cuts maintenance to as little as one-fifth of that normally required for equipment not having these new features.

If you would like to complete your file with technical information on this rugged new Teletype 28, write Teletype Corporation, Dept. AN6, 4100 Fullerton Ave., Chicago 39, Ill.

Adm. Standley Writes Of His Duty In Russia

"Admiral Ambassador to Russia," written by Admiral William H. Standley, USN (Ret.), in collaboration with RAdm. Arthur A. Agerton USN (Ret.), deals primarily with the period when Admiral Standley served as United States ambassador to Russia for 18 months in 1942-43.

Admiral Standley's assignment to the Soviet Union came during a highly critical period of our wartime alliance. He writes of the people, the country, the elaborate diplomatic banquets, and the tense negotiations for the Second Front during WW II. He concludes his book with a chapter analyzing the challenge of communism and outlining a program for today.

As a naval officer, Admiral Standley served in both wars and, in his capacity as Chief of Naval Operations, he performed the duties of Acting Secretary of the Navy during Secretary Swanson's illness. Retired with the rank of Admiral in 1938, he was recalled to duty four times which included his diplomatic mission to Russia and service on the Roberts Commission in their investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster. Today, Admiral Standley is active in the San Diego Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Published by Henry Regnery Company of Chicago, the book is 533 pages long.

Admiral Agerton, who collaborated with Admiral Standley for four years in preparing this book, was commissioned an officer in 1923, and served in all ranks in the Navy until his request for retirement in 1947. In addition to his naval career, Admiral Agerton has written a novel, "The Jungle Seas," and several short stories.

Nurse Career Guidance

Lt. Col. Eileen W. Brady, ANC, has reported for duty in the Office of the Army Surgeon General following the completion of a three-year duty tour at Tripler Army Hospital, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Group Would Extend Draft, Family Aid

The Senate Armed Services Committee has voted to extend the draft and dependents assistance for another four years.

At the same time, the group approved a two-year extension of the doctor-dentist draft act, and OK'd a continuation of the special, $100 per month pay for doctors, dentists and medical specialists.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess has said extension of the Dependents Assistance Act will alleviate "to a large degree the financial hardships incurred by the families of those enlisted personnel, including inductees, who are now in the service, as well as those who will be required to serve in the future."

Under the Assistance Act, the Government and the Serviceman each contribute to a pay allotment which goes to assist the support of the man's dependents.

The base pay of enlisted personnel "is simply not enough to enable those who are married, or who have other dependents to provide adequately for their families," Mr. Burgess said.

In approving the draft extension, the Senate Committee limited the draft liability of National Guard volunteers without prior active service to age 30. The House had approved an age limit of 26.

Another House amendment which would end the draft liability at age 26 for men deferred as 4Fs was eliminated by the Committee.

The group also drafted an amendment which provides that men discharged "for the convenience of the Government" after six months service cannot be redrafted. If discharged for any other reason they must have served 12 months before they become ineligible for the draft. A House amendment provided that all men who are discharged after six months or more cannot be redrafted in peacetime.

INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

Lockheed Ga. Plant Gets New Type Contract

The Air Force's first fixed price incentive type contract, valued upward of $97-million, has been awarded to the Georgia Division of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation for the manufacture of an undisclosed number of C-130 Hercules turbo-prop medium combat transports, spare parts, ground handling equipment, training aids and technical data books.

Mack Trucks has been given a contract for 148 ten-ton 6-by-6 prime movers, bringing to a total of 255 such vehicles which the Defense Department has ordered from Mack.

Vitro Corporation of America disclosed this week it has been under contract for the past year with the Navy Bureau of Ordnance for guided missile systems engineering for the USS Boston and Canberra.

Ex-Navy Pilot Joins AC Spark Plug Div.

James W. Salassi, a 1941 graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, has been appointed aviation sales engineer to cover the West Coast for AC Spark Plug Division of General Motors. A former Naval pilot, Mr. Salassi also served with the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics before taking a position with United Air Lines as a power plant engineer, the post he held prior to his new job.

Fred N. Dickerman, former director of engineering of Chance-Vought Aircraft, Inc., has been named chief preliminary design engineer of the Georgia Division, Lockheed Aircraft Corporation. In the 1930's, he worked as a draftsman on preliminary designs of such Navy planes as the Corsair series and the Cutlass.

August Bringewald, former chief of manufacturing research and development at Republic Aviation Corporation, has been named manufacturing engineer for the F-105 project. He will be succeeded in his former position by Richard E. Stegler.

Foreign Awards Arouse U. S. Diesel Complaints

Diesel engine manufacturers are protesting the awarding of contracts to German firms of 13 diesel motor generator sets for Spanish air bases and 15 sets for Spanish pipelines.

American manufacturers of heavy diesels claim they are operating at only 20% capacity and are part of the mobilization base. They state that German and Swiss firms are at near capacity.

The Bureau of Yards and Docks who are in charge of all military construction in Spain claim they are following Air Force orders for world-wide competition for bids on all equipment not produced in Spain.

American firms contend that in the event of an emergency the question of spare parts would be a serious one.

At his press conference, Secretary Wilson promised to look into the situation and give consideration to the size of the financial "penalty." A number of congressional delegations are reported interested in the final decision.

Procurement Posts

Col. Franklin K. Fagan, former Inspector General of the Air Research and Development Command, has been assigned as Acting Director of the Armed Services Technical Information Agency at ARDC Headquarters, Dayton, O. He replaced Leslie E. Neville, who resigned 31 May.

Col. Mark A. H. Smith, former commanding officer of the Giessen Quartermaster Depot, Germany, has been named commanding officer of the Jeffersonville Quartermaster Depot, Ind. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Kearns, who retires 30 June.

Use Of "Demonstrator" Speeds GE Jet Progress

A faster and improved method of developing advanced jet engines, which will give a "new look" to American aviation was described to the Aviation Writers' Association convention in Toronto, Canada, by Gerhard Neumann, General Manager of General Electric's Jet Engine Department at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Neumann reported that the GE-J79 jet engine is well ahead of the accepted schedule for comparable engines largely through the use of the "demonstrator engine" principle.

Comprised of all the latest developments in engine components, the "demonstrator engine" is divorced from all production and application considerations. "Many of the development problems are eliminated by this simple separation," he said.

Mr. Neumann said the demonstrator engine principle provides a proven basis for production and enables the product designer to concentrate on the problems of installation and qualification. "We'll have better engines and better air frames — and will have them faster," he asserted.

This is a necessary time-saving since with the system now used it takes as long as five years to develop a new engine, compared to about three and a half years for the air frame, Mr. Neumann pointed out.

Brig. Gen. Kristofferson Heads Pan Am Mission

Assignment of Brig. Gen. Henry C. Kristofferson, USAFR, of San Mateo, Calif., as chief of a team of Pan American World Airways experts who will assist Pakistan in expanding and modernizing its air transport system has been announced by Brig. Gen. Thomas O. Hardin, USAFR, Director-Technical Assistance Program. General Kristofferson is a veteran Clipper pilot.

The three year program, the first government technical assistance project to use aviation to stimulate the economic and industrial growth of underdeveloped regions, is being undertaken jointly by the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration, Pakistan International Airlines, and Pan American.

General Kristofferson and his 24 man team will train Pakistanis in the modern techniques of air transport, including operations, pilot training, dispatch and other departments, so that they can take over all important jobs, both in the air and on the ground.

CONAD Wing Works On Computer Defense

The Continental Air Defense Command has activated the 4620th Air Defense Wing at the Lincoln Laboratories in Lexington, Mass., for initial experimentation of its new semi-automatic air defense computers.

The new wing will provide technical guidance to the Air Research and Development Command in the operation of the new computers ordered by the USAF from the International Business Machines Corporation.

The new computers are designed to receive and transmit automatically air defense data from many input and output devices at electronic speeds.

The 4620th Air Defense Wing will provide computer programming for CONAD combat centers and direction centers and will monitor the testing required for each computer installation.

The new wing will be commanded by Col. Joseph D. Lee, and will be directly responsible to the Commander-in-Chief of COMAD, General Earle E. Partridge, USAF. It will have a complement of approximately 38 officers.

Initial computer installations will be at McGuire AFB, N. J.; Stewart AFB, Newburgh, N. Y.; and Syracuse Air Force Station, N. Y.

U. S. COAST GUARD

Secretary of The Treasury—George M. Humphrey
Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond

THE $1.5 billion military housing authorization program approved by the Senate includes $135 million to construct 10,000 new family housing units for Coast Guard personnel.

The Coast Guard construction was added to the measure during floor debate on the plan when the Senators accepted an amendment offered by Senator Prescott Bush (R-Conn.).

Overall authority for the military construction is contained in the new Housing Act of 1955 which passed the Senate by a vote of 60-25.

Title IV of the Housing Act establishes "Armed Services Housing Mortgage Insurance" which authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to contract with private builders for the construction of family quarters on or near Coast Guard installations.

After completion of the houses, the Treasury Department would assume responsibility for the obligation of the mortgage and operation of the housing.

Coast Guard personnel and their dependents would be assigned to the housing in the same manner as they are assigned to public quarters, and would turn over their quarters allowance as rental.

Treasury Secretary George C. Humphrey is expected to complete the 1955 grade distribution of Coast Guard officers by the end of June.

The recount of officer ranks may mean that there will be a substantial increase in the number advanced each month. It is anticipated that the up-swing in promotion rates will be reflected in the group named on 1 July.

Early Discharge of EM

Coast Guard enlisted men may now be discharged three months before the end of normal enlistment periods under the terms of a new bill signed by the President.

The new law—PL 67—allows early discharges without prejudice to any right, privilege, or benefit a man would have received had he served out his full term. The law provides, however, that payment will not be made for the unexpired period not actually served by the individual.

A similar regulation has been on the Navy's books since 1912. The purpose of the legislation is to permit the discharge of men when a vacancy will not be created in the complement of a ship or when the ship is about to sail with the probability that it will not return to the United States before the expiration of an enlistment.

Confirmations

The Senate has confirmed the nominations of 249 Coast Guard Warrant Officers for permanent rank.

Of the total 70 were confirmed as W-4's, 72 as W-3's and 107 as W-2's.
